My dear Mr Jermen

My son Luis and his wife and child were at Naples for sea bathing, previous to when the Cholera burst forth in all its fury. They were, however, fortunate enough to make their escape to Roma, where they still remain for the present.

During the few days they spent at Castellamare, they met with an American Gentleman a Mr Newton Macgregor (I think) who told them he had published a "Life of Keats" Is this the American Edition published under the direction of my Nephew James Speed?

I have seen in the Pall Mall an advertisement of "The Cholera, And its "Prevention" published in our "Eton Public Mass Gazette" Will you have the goodness to forward it to me, as Mrs Lamert is very anxious to read it. I shall be most grateful to you for the 3 months pension at the end of the month, and I will punctually send you the Certificate on the 5th Oct.

With kindest remembrances to your wife and family

Believe me to remain

Yours very sincerely

Fanny Keats de Llanos

Many I hope to have the pleasure of seeing you in October
